

The Scottish Orifice

Pre-Tender award questionnaire for contractors bidding for the construction of The Scottish Parliament.

Applicants must answer each question.

Where the applicants are unable to answer a question, this will have a negative impact on their eligibility for the tender award.

The decision of the Scottish Office is final and no correspondence will be entered into regarding the decision.

Tender applicants have no right of appeal to any higher body, including God and/or Tony Blair.

Question	Applicants response
Is your name Eric?
If your name is not Eric, do you have plans to change it to Eric?
If your name is not Eric, would you mind if we called you Eric?
Eric, how many fag packet backs will your completed plans require?
Do you live somewhere nice and sunny?
If so, can we come and visit you?
Do you have some insurance policies?
Are they third party fire and theft or fully comprehensive?
Do you have a recognised and accredited cost control methodology?
Can we have a shot of it?
In the unlikely event that the project runs over-budget, would you mind if we increased your fees commensurately?
Do you live in a country with a successful football team?
